Attendee Profile

Testimonials

In supply chain and logistics, the connectivity between manufacturing and client delivery is essential. The pace and manner in which we connect will significantly enhance the value chain. As we look to the future, initiatives like "Make in India" and "Atmanirbhar Bharat" highlight the importance of manufacturing within this ecosystem.

Kishore Jayaraman
President, Rolls-Royce, India & South

First of all, the panel was very relevant given the current evolution of supply chain and logistics. The event began well, with a government representative outlining their plans..

Umesh Madhyan
President - Logistics, Hindustan Coca Cola Beverages Ltd.

Today's event was very helpful for me. There was a lot of useful information shared by people from FMCG and other industries. It was interesting to learn about contract logistics and how logistics is becoming more important in industries where it wasn't a focus before. This change is really intriguing.

Sukumar Kameswaran
CEO, TVS Supply Chain

The biggest strength of this panel was its diversity. It was thoughtfully assembled with individuals from various backgrounds, industries, and experiences. The questions were carefully curated, allowing us to build connections across different industries and understand the commonality of the problem statements. This panel effectively highlighted valuable insights.

Jeyanth Samuel Ranjan
Director - Product, Business Intel & Central Operations, APAC MENA & LATAM, Amazon

It's been a fabulous experience. Although it's my first conference, I've enjoyed meeting numerous industry leaders and hearing valuable insights. The opportunity to listen to various perspectives has been enriching. Connecting with others and understanding how different players approach logistics and handle various challenges has been particularly valuable.

Mohit Rathi
VP - Customer Growth & Engagement,
Porter

This is an incredible experience for us, as we are surrounded by industry leaders and experts, as well as individuals working to build their own companies in this space. India is emerging as a significant global economy, and to support this growth, we need to refine our logistics policies and develop effective solutions.

Namit Jain
Founder & CEO, Zen Mobility

The experience has been very positive. Ultimately, the supply chain is crucial in determining the success of any industry, especially in manufacturing. In today's volatile world, with numerous uncertainties and daily developments, managing business effectively is essential.

A. Gururaj
Managing Director, Optiemus Electronics

This has been an enriching experience, with extensive discussions on topics such as government policy formations and their impact on the current supply ecosystem in the country. We also covered the evolving manufacturing landscape in India and technological advancements in planning and forecasting. Additionally, we explored last-mile delivery discussions. Overall, it has been a highly valuable experience.

Sourabh Raghuvanshi
VP and Head - Supply Chain, Lava International

It's great to be back at ET Auto and learn about the latest changes in the supply chain. Interacting with the speakers has been insightful, and overall, it's been a fantastic experience.

Ayush Lohia
CEO, Lohia Auto

ETSCLC 2024: Government initiatives like PM Gati Shakti Master Plan will drive down India's overall logistics costs, says Ramesh Kumar Verma, DPIIT

Ramesh Kumar Verma, Deputy Secretary, DPIIT, Logistics Division, tells Contributing Editor Smitu Bhattacharya during the ET Supply Chain and Logistics Conclave 2024 that earlier, the different infrastructure ministries were compelled to work in silos but after the PM Gati Shakti initiative, there has been coordination and improved planning for big ticket projects. And that the logistics costs in India are well below the 10% of GDP mark.
